BARBER PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN STABBING CASE

Waives Examination and Is Bound to Grand Jury Under $2,500

VICTIM REPORTED TO BE IMPROVED

Lawrence Breault Signs Affidavit Against Zammarrelli

Lawrence Breault, 24, of 608 Aetna st., suffering from deep wounds in the left side and arm where he was stabbed during what police say was a general fight on South Broadway early Thursday morning, today was reported in an improved condition at the Central Clinic hospital.

Physicians reported that he had spent a "good" night and that his condition today was not critical.

Nick J. Zammarrelli, 21, Salem barber residing on Penn ave., arrested together with three others as suspects in the stabbing, late yesterday afternoon was charged with stabbing with intent to wound in an affidavit filed against him by Breault.

Zammarrelli, whose name was first reported by police to be "Mid-elka," waived examination and entered a plea of not guilty before Mayor Norman Phillips. He consented to being bound to the next grand jury on $2,500 bond and was released after bond was provided.

Others arrested in the case were ordered discharged by Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer who at first had planned to file charges of fighting and disorderly conduct against them. More than 10 men, Stoffer said, were involved in the fight and he reported, it would be unfair to file charges against only the three placed under arrest.

The argument began in a South Broadway cafe after a friendly debate about boxing.

E. Palestine Mayor Eliminates 2 Jobs

EAST PALESTINE, Jan. 5.—The second chapter in Mayor Enoch Faulkner's economy move was written yesterday when he abolished the chief electrician's job and one of a laborer at the city electric power plant.

Harry Van Fossan, for many years electrician at the plant, was cut off the list as was Bert Whitaker, laborer. The mayor, in his announcement, stated that abolishing the jobs would save the city a large amount of money and that both jobs were unnecessary in the administration of the power plant.

Three people have been affected by Faulkner's move. Mrs. Pearl Young was removed from the office of the service department, having served as assistant clerk for some time.

Faulkner intimated that other announcements of a similar nature are forthcoming.

Youth Arrested In Counterfeit Charge

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 5.—Fred Young, 17, was taken to Cleveland by federal agents after his arrest here by deputy sheriffs who said he had 120 in counterfeit $5 bills.

Young refused to reveal where he had obtained the bills.

State To Re-enact Wynekoop Murder

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The state may offer to re-enact its conception of the death of Rheta Wynekoop for the jury which is to try her mother-in-law, Dr. Alice Wynekoop, on a charge of murder.

The prosecution hinted this yesterday when Dr. Wynekoop's case was continued for one week by Judge Joseph B. David, who refused to grant a request by the defense to impound evidence seized at the Wynekoop home.

Retention of the operating table on which Rheta's nude body was found, aroused speculation as to whether the state planned to bring an effigy of the girl's body into court in an attempt to show how she died.

Rheta met death last November in the basement surgery of Dr. Alice's home.

AGED DAMASCUS COUPLE, WED 64 YEARS, HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Lote Callahan To Be Dinner Guests Sunday

HAVE RESIDED IN VILLAGE 61 YEARS

Each Is 86 and In Good Health As Anniversary Nears

Married on Jan. 7, 1870, Mr. and Mrs. Lote Callahan of Damascus, each 86 years of age, will celebrate their 64th wedding anniversary at their home Sunday.

The aged couple have resided in Damascus for 61 years, moving there in March, 1872, from Mahoningtown, near New Castle, Pa., where they took their marriage vows.

Callahan, a retired blacksmith, was born in New Albany, north of Salem, on July 28, 1847, while his wife was born in Edinburg, Pa., on Dec. 18 the same year.

Dinner Is Planned

A family dinner in honor of the couple is being arranged by their son, Dennis Callahan and his family. Mr. and Mrs. Callahan have been residing with the son since 1929.

After living in Mahoningtown for two years, the couple moved to the village which was to be their permanent home. They first occupied the home in which Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Delzer lived. This home was located on the site now occupied by the Damascus I. O. O. F. hall.

In 1880 they moved to the property now occupied by Mrs. Mary Anna Pinn. Callahan entered the blacksmithing business the same year, moving a building from the old Damascus woolen mill site for use as his shop.

Buys Farm

He retired from this trade in 1899 and purchased a farm just east of Damascus. There Mr. and Mrs. Callahan and their sons Dennis and Clyde were actively engaged. In farming for more than a score of years until the aged couple left the farm to live with Dennis in the village. Their other son resides in Alliance.

At the present time Mrs. Callahan is recuperating from injuries sustained in a fall recently while Callahan is suffering from a slight cold. The aged couple, however, according to friends, are in good health, considering their age.

(By Associated Press) NEVERS, France, Jan. 5.—Evelyn Frost, the American aviatrix, was burned to death today in the crash of an airplane.

Miss Frost, who was piloting the plane, en route to Egypt, collided with high tension wires in a fog.

The plane burst into flames immediately and the pilot was trapped in the flaming mass of wreckage.

A British flier named Rutledge, who accompanied her, was slightly injured.

CWA Jobs So Good Sebring Men Give Up Elective Posts

SEBRING, Jan. 5.—Rather than jeopardize their jobs as foremen under the CWA, Robert Larkins and John Heddelson today declined to qualify for places on the board of public affairs to which they were elected in November.

Mayor F. M. Howell today named Fred Shaffer and Steven Leighton, former councilmen, to take their places.

Form Classes To Study Mathematics

In response to the interest shown by the residents of Salem, it is planned to organize classes in various branches of mathematics, in chemistry or physics.

The new classes formed will depend entirely upon the needs and desires of those who register. Registration will take place at the high school building, Room 109 at 7 p. m. Monday.

H. W. Lautenbach, of Damascus rd., who is to teach these classes, is a certified secondary school teacher in Ohio, and has had several years high school teaching experience. He is a graduate of Ohio Northern university, and has studied advanced mathematics at Ohio State university.

Louis P. Kraus, field supervisor of the emergency school in Columbiana county, will also be present at the first meeting.

Since these classes are entirely free to the students, and will be adapted to their special needs, it is expected that there will be a large number of registrations. Everyone who is interested in improving his or her knowledge in these fields is invited to confer with Lautenbach.

ACTION IN BEHALF OF SILVER IS SEEN

RUSSIA TO BUY U. S. PRODUCTS

Large Orders Placed By Soviet Union Aid American Trade

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Prospective large purchases of American manufactured goods under the second Russian five year plan just announced will expedite the establishment of Soviet union consular offices in the United States.

Fending the arrival next week of Alexander Troyanovsky, first Soviet ambassador to Washington, no official announcement of the location of consular offices will be made.

What credit the Soviet establishment here is expected to depend on what action President Roosevelt takes, either in a message to congress seeking federal credits for firms doing business with Russia, or in asking for the setting up of a foreign trade corporation to expand American trade in Russia, as well as other nations.

Establishment of credits is expected by officials to be one of the first major questions Troyanovsky discusses with President Roosevelt.

It is the general opinion that Mr. Roosevelt will delay making any recommendations to congress until after he confers with Troyanovsky and William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to Russia.

Sebring's Mayor Demands Harmony From Councilmen

SEBRING, Jan. 5.—There'll be harmony in council, and the legislators will be working for the interests of the general public, if Mayor F. M. Howell has his way.

At the council's first meeting, Mayor Howell delivered an address in which he said:

"As mayor of Sebring it is my desire and yours I know, to do the things which will be best for the city. Therefore, as chairman of council, I ask your cooperation and the cooperation of all city officials.

"In these council meetings I am going to insist on keeping order at all times on all things that are to be discussed. Let us not allow selfishness, anger or passion to overrule our best judgment, and if we have a heated argument, shake hands before we leave the council chamber.

"Harmony is most essential in any organization. We have been elected to serve the people of Sebring. Now then, I say, as your mayor let us get together and give them our best."

International Problems To Be Shoved Aside For Time Being

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—President Roosevelt and congress, working so far in a spirit of team play, concentrated today on a developing program for permanent domestic readjustment which largely shoved aside international problems.

Indications came from the White House, meanwhile, that Mr. Roosevelt is giving renewed consideration to his bi-metallic monetary program. Leaders of the silver bloc in the senate were predicting a new administration move to aid the cause of the white

MOUNTAINS OF MONEY

Americans licked dry lips and swallowed hard when they read President Roosevelt's budget message Thursday. He called it brutally frank, and it was.

It described unsparingly the probable expense of the recovery effort
—the gamble to buy back better times with public money. It was the sharpest reminder the people have had of the enormous obligation they must assume under the Roosevelt program.

The federal government will have spent $10,569,006,967 in 12 months
when the current fiscal year ends next June. In the meantime, it will have realized an income of only $3,259,938,756. The difference between the two figures is the annual deficit—$7,309,068,211. These figures are administration estimates. Actual figures may vary widely.

This seven billion dollar deficit added to the already huge national debt makes the total of the country's indebtedness reach $29,847-000,000 without further additions.
That is a huge obligation for even this wealthy nation, but President Roosevelt believes it can be increased still more without danger.

During the new fiscal year, which starts the first of July, another two billion dollars will be added to the debt. This will represent emergency expenditures. The regular operating expense of the government, it is intended, will be balanced by income, estimated at $3-974,665,479. Total expenditures for the next fiscal year are estimated at $5,960,798,700—only 56 per cent of the total expenditure during the current year.

This is the salient feature of the budget message — the President's promise that 1934 shall be the climatic spending year. To carry the burden that is foreseen, it will be necessary for the government to borrow 10 billion dollars before the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 1934—approximately eight of those billions to cover expenses this year and two more to cover next year's anticipated deficit. The President anticipates no trouble making the loan.

The President's plan establishes 32 billion dollars as the arbitrary maximum of the national debt burden. Mr. Roosevelt hopes and believes that when it has been reached the tide of prosperity will be coming in again, enabling the government to build up its strained credit by an era of balanced budgets and debt amortization. This is a direct answer to a universal question. Where will spending stop? Mr. Roosevelt has set a limit.

The picture he paints is black,
apparently as black as he was able to make it. Minimum estimates of revenues and maximum estimates of expenditures have been used to put the administration on the safe side and perhaps to frighten the country so badly that congress will be unable to upset budget estimates to suit their whims and desires.

By postulating the final extreme of public spending, Mr. Roosevelt has shown good politics and admirable courage. Unfortunately, courage can not guarantee that his gigantic program will work out as smoothly as it will have to work out if disaster is to be avoided. It can only guarantee that everything possible is going to be done to make the recovery gamble the United States has taken be as safe as possible.

PREMATURE

It seems a bit early to talk about a baseball player and spring training, but the fact remains that the game's ranking hero has just completed a ceremony of such long standing that to ignore it would be to confess prejudice. Babe Ruth has started to get in shape for his annual battle with Colonel Ruppert.

The services have been memorized. Artie McGovern sends a certain number of invitations to be present at his gymnasium on a certain day. The lucky receivers turn out to see the famous Babe sweat and grunt through a certain number of exercises. His waistline is measured, his heart beat studied,
his outlook on all pertinent matters thoroughly canvassed and then the baseball season has been inaugurated.

The famous man admits candidly that this may be the last year he will go on exhibition for Mc-Govern's select list. Although he expects to play 100 games for the New York Yankees this year, he knows that the sprints left in his legs can be counted. In a few more weeks he will be 40 years old and the outfield's breezy spaces will have lengthened in proportion.

It's too bad, this habit time has of changing all things. There will be going to school presently a generation of youngsters who will know no more about Babe Ruth than about John L. Sullivan. And about the colorful little ceremony in McGovern's gymnasium they will know nothing at all. Poor little chaviers! They won't even know what they missed.

Canadian physician, diabetes was
a hopeless and fatal disease. Since this remedy has been used, diabetes is no longer
a dreaded afflic-tion.

In addition to the use of insulin,
other great advances have been made in the control of diabetes. For example, many sufferers from diabetes can control this disorder by adhering to a well planned and rigid diet. But where diet is of little aid, and the sufferer cannot remain sugar-free, insulin is necessary. It is especially indicated when the appetite cannot be satisfied and the patient continued to lose a great deal of weight.

What is insulin?
It is a substance secreted by certain cells in the pancreas, the "sweet-breads." It is developed by all healthy individuals. It is essential to health, because it helps burn starches and sugars. When absent or present in small amounts,
the body is unable to handle the starches and sugars of the diet.
Consequently the body does not get the necessary heat and energy.

How It Is Given
There is a lack of insulin in the body of the diabetic. In consequence, he is unable properly to utilize his food. As a result of this weakness an excessive amount of sugar accumulates within the body and it soon appears in the blood and urine.
If this condition is overlooked,
thirst, weakness, dizziness and frequent and painful elimination soon annoy the sufferer.

When insulin is administered the symptoms disappear and the excessive quantity of sugar in the body is burned up, as it should be. Insulin is given in varying amounts,
depending upon the age and weight of the sufferer, and the extent of the disease. It is injected under the skin with a hypodermic needle. It should never be used unless under the guidance and direction of a physician.

I am often asked whether insulin is a dangerous drug. It is not a dangerous drug, but if given carelessly, alarming reactions may occur.

Occasionally, the diabetic complaints of trembling, weakness and excessive sweating after insulin has been taken. This is due to the excessive burning of sugar caused by the insulin and the uncomfortable effects can be overcome by taking a little sugar, or drinking some orange juice or milk. Another danger to guard against is taking insulin at the wrong time. It is preferably administered before meals.
If insulin is taken, the meal should never be omitted.

Do not be afraid of insulin. Follow the directions given by your doctor. Report to him at periodic intervals so that he may determine the progress you are making. It may be necessary to reduce the amount of insulin, increase it, or omit it.
This depends entirely upon the progress you have made.

We should rejoice over this discovery. It has meant much to the human family.

STOCKHOLM — Sweden's sweet tooth has doubled its consumption
since 1913, an inquiry by the Finance department has shown. A proposed tax on candy would bring in ten million kronor, but so far the authorities hesitate. In 1931
the 6,000,000 Swedes consumed 12-403 tons of candy, mostly chocolates, worth 22,582,000 kronor. Over 80 per cent of the candy makers are women.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Thoughts
while strolling: A columnist is in constant flight against interruptions.
Fannie Hurst has the right idea.
From 9 to 1 she works in a locked, telephoneless study. Funny why we like to have others feel our job is so difficult of all. Whatever became of Carol McComas?
Una Merkel and Nida Westman not only look alike but voice the same whine. First choice for back yonder town names: H. T. Webster's Tomahawk, Wis. Wonder where Pecora does his banking? Sad about de Segur's falling sight. What a romantic opera figure he was!
One word description of Grover Whalen—cynicism. Old boys of the club windows. Bulge frogs in a pond, with eyes bulging over newspaper tops. The theater grows bawdier and bawdier. It couldn't be any fun to be Barney Gallant's barber. That is without a low torch.

What die-hard bravado in that western millionaire's tombstone inscription: "I got my share!" I don't believe those tales of young Fairbanks' "reah-ly doncha know" accent. Jack Haley suggests the youthful pictures of Byron. And how effortless Jack Benny's radio endeavors!

One of my favorite people—Ward Morehouse. Burton Rascoe's knowledge of the classics for his years is astounding. He could pass as a head office boy. Can't something be done about that unfinished, decaying apartment spire on Central Park West. It's getting spooky.

When George Arliss and his wife first arrived in New York from England they had only a day before joining a show in rehearsal. That evening they strolled from the old Waldorf for what they thought was their first glimpse of famous Fifth Avenue. They said nothing, but their enthusiasm popped to zero six weeks later upon returning they learned they had been wandering
up shoddy Sixth avenue.

Ted Woodward motoring through West Virginia hills rounded a road bend to come suddenly upon a horse and buggy carrying a young man and an old lady. The horse crouched and started to quiver as though to leap out of harness, while the old lady jumped to the ground and tore through the briar patches yelling at top voice. Woodward left his car and said to the young man: "Don't worry, I'll help you get your horse by."
"I kin handle the horse all right,"
said the lad seriously. "You get Ma by."

Add Manhattan worries: James Branch Cabell hates New York so intensely his wife has to drag him
here to see his publishers.

New York, after much punishment, has thumbs down on stray bits of royalty floating around the past few years. Young ladies who tingled to such companionships have grown chilly. The royalty racket was spiked by the most effective of all weapons against phoneys—ridicule. Society chatterers began it and musical revues added to the blisters.

Division street, that gloomy under-elevated thoroughfare, skirling off a hip of Chatham Square, is be-

As Morgenthau Dropped 'Acting'

Having moved up a step and assumed the title as well as the responsiulated by his father, former Ambassador to Turkey, in the Oval Room of Charles B. Driscoll recently banded in from a visit to his native Wichita, Kansas, after a long absence. He was struck by a re-friends. Then he looked in the glass. "Voilaire once observed:

"Long absent friends of youth bring man's most vivid consciousness of years."

I wish I could be a big, strong silent man instead of a twittering nabby pambly. Last night at 2 a.

jostled me out of sound sleep. Someone I never heard of in the foyer
years old from an Afghan frontier.
What do you suppose my bright mind thought up? Give up? I was in a conference. Why couldn't I tell him I was in bed, did not drink and hang up in his ear. In a conference! I was never in a conference in my life. I'm not one of the conference people.

A Review of the Day's News
By Arthur Brisbane

THE PRESIDENT says "we have undertaken new methods," and we have with a vengeance. "We," meaning 122,000,000 Americans, led by the President, will spend in the next six months, in various useful ways, 1,000 million dollars a month, at the rate of 12 billions of dollars a year.

Tom Reed, when speaker of the House, yelled because the country spent 500 millions in one year. What would he say of 1,000 millions a month?

TWELVE billions in a year is a great deal of money, but it is not so much as enough, if well spent, to drive out depression and bring back employment.

We sent 10 billions to Europe, never to come back, and spent 20 billions for other peoples' war. Some of that. We might well spend some of our billions producing at home.

GERMANY, with the help of many doctors, scientists, psychiatrists, judges, hospitals, preachers to "sterilize" hundreds of thousands of German men, women and children, from infancy to 50 years of age and older. The idea was to pick out the unfit, and, by surgery, make it impossible for them to have children.

It might be simpler, more effective, to select four, instead of 400,000 Germans, sterilize the four, and let the headman's assistance, and go along in the old German way, the old way used to work well enough.

MUSSOLINI believes that war is inevitable, even should the wicked Japanese never sail through the air against Rome. He is giving military training to 2,000,000 young Italian boys.

LA GUARDIA, new mayor of New York, asks for dictatorial powers, the right to "hire, fire and regulate pay." Many exclaim "dictatorship! never, never!"

What do the innocent things suppose they have always had from well-organized political machines? Do they imagine that they have had any say in their government?

What is the difference between dictatorship used secretly, and open dictatorship?

MR. WALTER J. CUMMINGS, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, says the situation as regards security of bank deposits should be made clear. The facts are that all national banks must deposit certain moneys to be used to guarantee all bank deposits up to $2500 and have done so. State banks are not compelled to enter into this arrangement, but may do so if they please.

ST. PAUL—Bank bandits had high sledding in Minnesota during 1933, according to Melvin Passolt, head of the State Bureau of Criminal Apprehension. Bandits robbed 29 banks, an average of one every 12 days, during 1933, and escaped with $112,349. Loot in 1932 was $280,332. Passolt's report revealed twenty-two of the participants in the 1933 raids are under arrest. Some are serving time, others await trial. Eleven of the raids have been marked solved.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

"The Highway Leading to Japan" was the topic studied by members of the Women's Missionary society of St. Jacob's Reformed church north of Lisbon at a meeting Thursday at the church.

Mrs. John Everett read a letter written by a missionary to Japan. Others who had part on the program are: Mrs. Ray Klingaman, Mrs. Paul Siler, Mrs. Nevin Albright, Mrs. Anna Franz, Mrs. Minnie Figley, Mrs. Harvey Shive, Mrs. Wilbur Arter and Miss Geneva Zimmerman.

A duet, "The King's Highway" was sung by Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Irving Megrall with Mrs. Klingaman at the piano.

The story of the painting "The Nazarene" by Col. Stanley Todd, was given by Mrs. H. V. Zimmerman.

The morning hours were devoted to quilting. At noon a covered dinner was enjoyed. At this time two interesting letters from John Beck, young missionary to China, were read. Beck, whose parents are Americans, was born in China. He with his mother and other members of the family spent eight years in this country recently and have returned to China to join Mr. Beck, who is engaged in mission work in that country. John expects to be a professor in a church school.

Twenty-three members and six visitors were at the meeting.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

W. E. Trump, teacher in the Sunday school of the First Reformed church, Alliance, for many years, was a guest speaker at a social gathering of members of the Men's Bible class of St. Jacob's Reformed church, north of Lisbon, Thursday evening at the church.

Trump used for his theme "The Second Mile" and for the nucleus of his talk, "And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile go with him twain" (Matt 5:41). He stressed the thought of helping others and applied his subject to everyday living.

An orchestra from the Alliance church offered a group of selections. After the meeting a supper was served. There were 92 in the company, members and their guests.

Charles Enriken, the new president of the class, was in charge.

SOUTH SIDE CLUB

Mrs. Ed Grubbs extended hospitality to associates of the South Side club for a meeting Thursday afternoon at her home, Lisbon rd.

Officers of the club were re-elected for another year. They are: President, Mrs. Grubbs; secretary, Mrs. D. L. Camp.

The entertainment committee is comprised of Mrs. David Asby, Mrs. Samuel Hall and Mrs. J. W. Yates.

FIGURES REVEAL UTILITIES' TASK

They Had a Hard Row To Hoe During Years of 1930-32

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Jan. 5.—A preliminary study of municipally owned waterworks, electric light and gas plants has convinced a state research body that the utilities had a fairly hard row to hoe. The figures were for the years 1930-32.

The special joint legislative committee on taxation, ordered the survey to determine if municipally owned utilities offer new sources of revenue.

The group found that in 1932, for instance, municipal waterworks in the 14 cities had an aggregate balance after paying for operation and maintenance costs of $6,785,473.

After interest charges were figured, however, the balance shrunk to $3,715,495.

But, it was pointed out, the municipally owned waterworks escaped paying real estate taxes and the 1.35 per cent excise tax.

Figuring those in, the net balance would have shrunk to $87,585, with six showing deficits.

The eight which would have been on the clear side of the ledger included Toledo $21,177 estimated balance after all charges; Akron $81,674; Dayton $51,197; Youngstown $339,083; Hamilton $67,826; Lorain $22,309; Portsmouth $5,409; and Columbus $115,707.

Cleveland would have marked up in red ink $341,838; Cincinnati $104,994; Canton $4,133; Lakewood $19,924; Springfield $17,672; and Lima $8,017.

John Baker, CCC Member, Tells of Film Star's Visit

A visit with Harry Carey, screen actor, camp routine and battles with the forest fire which recently caused millions of dollars in damage to California forests are related in a letter received by Miss Marion Baker, Salem R. D. No. 2, from John A. Baker, Salem boy who is a member of the Citizenship Conservation Camp at Bear Canyon, Sausalito, Calif.
Members of Baker's company entertained Carey, famed western and character player of the screen, and were, in turn, entertained by him. Carey told of work in connection with the production of the picture, "Trader Horn" in which he played the title role and also narrated other interesting incidents of screenland.

The CCC lads stationed at Bear Canyon, Baker relates, have accomplished many things in a material way and the camp also has benefited the members greatly, physically and mentally. The youths have built 12 miles of truck roads, six one-half miles of foot and pack trails, constructed eight miles of fire lanes and built three public camps.
In addition to this work, Baker narrates, the company has also done much work in its own camp and has brought it recognition as one of the outstanding camps in the Fort McArthur district.
Summoned to battle the devastating blaze on Mt. Lukens in La Canada, the boys were called to their fifth fire. This blaze burned continuously for three days and three nights and covered an area of more than 6,300 acres. Loss is estimated at more than $5,000,000.
Concluding his letter Baker says that "three months of our second enlistment are up. We're enjoying it here but we are certainly anxious to get back home."

Missing Cashier Has Check Coming

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5—If the authorities ever catch up with R. C. Baker, missing cashier of the Knox County Savings bank, they can tell him there's a government check for $3—plus mileage from Mt. Vernon—waiting here for him.
Baker is accused of embezzling $5,000. He has been missing for the last three weeks, ever since he presented himself at federal court for jury service.
That's when he earned his check. It was not known at the time there was a shortage in the bank's funds. But he couldn't have been arrested until he returned to Mt. Vernon anyway. As a juror, Baker was in the federal service and immune under federal law.

Abandonment of Village Is Ordered Because of Disease

(By Associated Press)
MEDIA, Pa., Jan. 5—Get out! That notice has been served on every family in the village of Sackville. The eighty homes in the 135-year-old wool mill community have been ordered abandoned because of an outbreak of a dangerous disease, anthrax.
The order was given yesterday by R. H. Sack, who personally owns the dwellings and is president of the Sackville Mills company, on which the village depends for its livelihood.
It is to protect the 103 children from the disease that he has ordered the settlement vacated. Sack said. He added that "a reasonable time" will be given the residents in which to comply.
But fathers and mothers are shaking their heads. Working folk who live in a village without sewers, running water or electricity, can ill afford to transplant their families to another town.
"We are not afraid of an epidemic," Sack asserted. "There has been one death from the disease and a number made ill; wool workers do not fear the disease, as it is not serious if treated promptly."
The anthrax first was contracted in the mill.
Telling of his efforts to protect non-workers, Sack said, "we have been soaking the ground throughout the village with gasoline and

NEW YORK OPENS 1934 AUTO SHOW

All Kinds of Changes Are Introduced In Models At Exposition

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 5—Fishtail, tear drop cars—snow shoes—cars that bend their knees—cars that shoot ahead as "smoothly" as a grape being squeezed out of its skin.

All these and more are being arranged today for the 34th annual national automobile show, which opens tomorrow in Grand Central station.

Designers have studied icebergs, snow shoes and tears. The salesmen, explaining the dictionary, have coined new language to describe the creations. Aero-stream, the latest.

The accent this year is on streamlining. Engineers found that robbers moving through water are round in front, pointed behind like a snowshoe or a fish. Some cars are built with these lines in mind. Another school of body design favors more familiar lines but with smart new styling. Everything looks faster, smoother.

Longer hinges, door handles are streamlined. Spare tires are tucked away where the breeze won't hit them. Cushions are deeper, softer, more powerful. Some pleasure cars have superchargers. The characteristic only of racing machines. The long-legged person has more room for his knees. Prices range from under $500 to more than $7,000.

Along with the 250 cars and changes on view will be a million dollars worth of parts, equipment, accessories.

The show, being put on by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, represents an industry which in 1933 produced goods with a wholesale value of $1,655,928,000. It will be open all next week.

Members of the nation's "First Family" are shown in the Executive gallery of the House Chamber during ceremonies that marked opening of Congress. At right, Mrs. Franklin D. ## De Mille Production Coming to Grand; Davies and Crosby in State's Musical

Popular Players Appear In "Going Hollywood"; Youthful Stars Head Cast In Grand Feature

CECIL B. DeMILLE's first production of the season comes to the Grand theater Saturday to play two days. It is "This Day and Age," featuring a splendid cast consisting of Charles Bickford, Richard Cromwell, Judith Allen, Harry Green, Eddie Nugent, Ben Alexander, Lester Arnold, Fuzzy Knight, George Barbier, Mickey Daniels, and Louise Carter. There are seven sons of famous screen dads in this picture, also—Wallace Reid, Jr., Carlyle Blackwell, Jr., Fred Kohler, Jr., Neal Hart, Bryant Washburn, Jr., Frank Tinney, Jr., and Eric Von Stroheim, Jr.

Novel Plot
Most of the cast is composed of these young people, a new generation of film stars as it were. It is a story of a group of high school students, not the "flaming youth" variety but serious minded, law abiding boys and girls who believe in getting what belongs to them and in giving just punishment to him who does one of them harm.

The town's students in the picture's locale are appointed to political office when the annual boy's week comes along. One of the boys appointed to the position of district attorney has been a witness of the murder of a merchant by the town's chief bunch of racketeers.

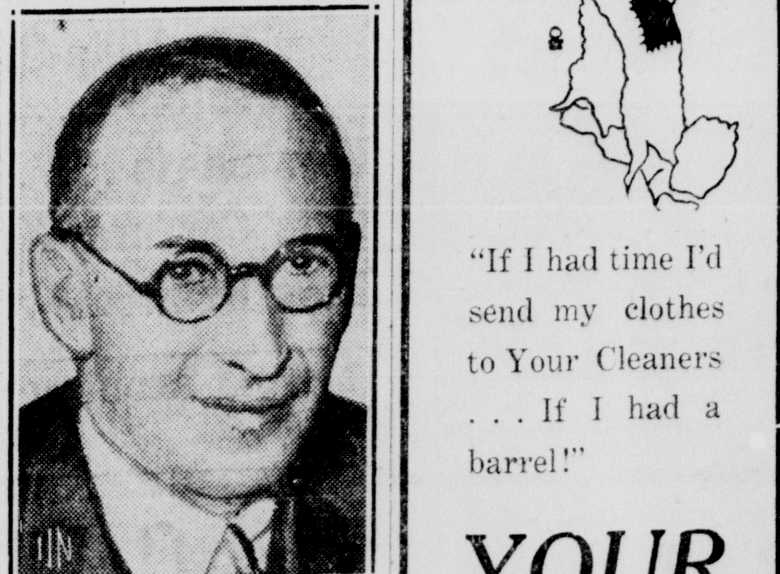

Boy's Win Confession
He comes to testify at the trial, zealously gives his testimony, sees the defense attorney take advantage of legal technicalities to win an acquittal for his client. The boys feel that it is incumbent upon them to get the evidence that will convict the outlaw. In their search one of the party is slain by the racketeer and the murder is planted upon one of his gang. Then the 5000 boys of the town decide to take matters on their own healthy shoulders and they kidnap the gangster.

Taken to the edge of the city, he is bound and by force driven to a confession—as in all DeMille productions there must be a mob scene and this one, of these young students, is supposed to be outstanding in its genuineness and realism and its thrilling, spectacular methods.

Good Bill Tonight
MARION DAVIES plays one of the most entertaining roles in her colorful career in the novel musical production, "Going Hollywood," her latest starring vehicle now at the State theater.

This time she contributes to her public a musical extravaganza which, besides telling a humorous and pleasing story, is fairly crowded with musical numbers.

Conversation, Poise Make Real Charm In Girl, Poll Reveals

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Jan. 5.—Health and handiwork may be a big help, but in the opinions and hopes of some 9,000 Cleveland girls, poise and pleasant conversation go a long way toward making a girl really charming.

These girls are members of the Association of Adventurers, a "charm school" on a group correspondence basis which had its start in a "health trail" when officials decided the tuberculosis death rate for Cleveland girls was still too high. The district dairy council, the academy of medicine and other organizations are the sponsors.

"A few years ago," says Miss Virginia R. Wing, chairman of the advisory committee for the association, "you only had to be lovely. When you pick a girl now, you don't want a dumb cluck. You want someone who goes and talks."

Each girl has been given a book for the charm course, in which she pastes her picture. For eight months the committees will correspond with girl groups, telling the girls how to be a hostess or a guest, how to pay a compliment, what to say in a given situation, and such things as admonitions about clothes and walking—for charm as well as health.

At the end of the eight months, a second picture will go in each book. The difference will be charm. There are no prizes, charm being considered its own reward.

MULLINS, MIRACLE MEN TRIUMPH IN CLASS A LEAGUE UPSETS

ORPHAN TOSSERS BEATEN, 22-10, BY FOREMEN'S CLUB

Herbert Brown Stars In Decisive Defeat of Trades Class

Playing brilliantly all the way, Mullins Foremen's club and Kelley's Miracle Men basketball teams pulled through victorious in two sensational Class A league upsets at the Memorial building gym Thursday night.

Mullins tossers were heroes in a decisive 22-10 pasting handed the previously unbeaten Sanders Orphans while the Miracle Men, with Herbert Brown starring, trounced the Trades Class, 36 to 31.

Held to a solitary foul point while the Orphans tallied six points in the first period, Mullins staged a stirring comeback to lead, 9-8, at the half, then went on to hold the 1933 champions to two points in the second half.

The Orphans tallied their two points in the third period and went scoreless in the final stanza. Brown tallied 20 points to lead the Miracle Men through to their triumph over the Trades Class. The game was close and hard fought all the way.

RIVAL TOSSERS TO CLASH HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Brown Works Salem Lads Hard After Lay-Off During Vacation

Renewing their campaign for a successful basketball season after a dismal opening, Youngstown Chaney High's veteran tossing combine battles the unbeaten Salem High varsity at the Quaker gymnasium Saturday night.

Quakers Favored
The Quakers, victorious in four consecutive early season frays, are favored to upset the invading aggregation but only after a hard fought and interesting battle.

Coach Herbert Brown, resuming drills this week after a week's lay-off during holiday vacations, is working hard to prevent any element of over-confidence from handicapping the performance of his players. The fact that his lads are as yet undefeated and are favored to win again tomorrow night hasn't meant any slackening down in work for the squad.

Chaney has triumphed in but one of its four early-season frays and Coach Ches McPhee is having plenty of troubles finding a replacement for Metro Schuchysak may be able to play in the Salem game and if he does the Quakers will find in the invading crew a really strong quintet.

Loss To Liverpool

The Youngstowners bowed to Akron East, 32-27, in their opening tilt and also lost to East Liverpool, 29-17. Sharpville was the third school to trim Chaney, 26-18, while the McPhee squad won its lone verdict against Zenia, 20 to 18. The reason for Chaney's somewhat mediocre performance in the early frays is hard to find inasmuch as McPhee has an almost entirely veteran crew to work with. Ash and Morrison are the forwards, Terlecki is at center and Patterson and Baker are at guard. Four of these players started against Salem last year and in that game they easily defeated the Quakers.

AL SMITH JOINS GIANT HURLERS

Not the Brown Derby 'Al', But Youthful Star Who Shows Promise

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Watch out, you National Leaguers who thought the New York Giants pitching was pretty tough last summer. Bill Terry's firing squad will be augmented in 1934 by Al Smith.
Not the big derby man from the sidewalks of New York, but Young Al Smith, a left hander, carried as a coach by the Giants last year. Jan Tierney, secretary of the Giants, is one who believes Smith is destined to cut a wide swath through league bat-men next campaign.

Smith was tagged as a great prospect last spring but Terry had so many experienced moundmen there was no place for the young portside. Rather than farm him out, the Giants elected to carry him as a coach. But this coming season, Tierney says, Smith will be added to what in 1933 was the most effective array of pitchers in the majors.

The Giants will depart for the south along about March 1. Tierney expects few, if any, salary arguments. As world champions, the Giants as a whole may expect at the very least no wage cuts. For not a few, including Carl Hubbell, the great southpaw hero of the world series, substantial increases probably have been decided upon.

Shifting over to the New York Yankees, it appears now as though any dispute Babe Ruth and Col. Jacob Ruppert may have over George Herman's 1934 honorarium will be conducted here rather than in Florida where it has been an almost annual feature of the spring training season.

COCHET IS NO. 1 IN NET RANKING

Tilden Rates Frenchman As Best Among World Tennis Players

By ALAN GOULD.
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—From the rich and dramatic tennis background of his remarkable career, Big Bill Tilden today put himself squarely on record as ranking Henry Cochet of France and Norman E. Brooks, the left handed Australian, as his all-time No. 1 and No. 2 stars of the game.

In the "first ten" that he picked by request, Tilden placed his old rival, "Little Bill" Johnston no better than fifth. Considering amateurs and professionals alike, here's his ranking:

1. Henry Cochet, France.
2. Norman E. Brooks, Australia.
3. Rene Lacoste, France.
4. Hans Nusslein, Germany.
5. William M. Johnston, U. S. A.
6. Vincent Richards, U. S. A.
7. Richard N. Williams, U. S. A.
8. Jean Borotra, France.
9. Bruce Barnes, U. S. A.
10. Karel Kozeluh, Czechoslovakia.

"Cochet and Brooks, to my mind."

explained Tilden. "knew and executed more tennis shots than any players I have ever known. At the same time they were masters of strategy. I rank both Lacoste and Nusslein ahead of Johnston not because they were any better match players than Billy but because they manifest greater all-around equipment and execution. No finer sportsman or fighter ever stepped on the courts than Johnston, but he had his weaknesses. Lacoste and Nusslein, at their best, have no weakness."

Beck Visits Here

Ed Beck has returned to school at Newberry, S. C., college after spending the holiday vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Beck, Morris st.

AKRON—The first known transatlantic shipment of cut flowers was a success, according to word received here by a floral company which recently shipped chrysanthemums from Akron to Friedrichshafen, Germany, aboard the Graf Zeppelin. The flowers, sent to Mrs. Hugo Eckener, wife of the Graf commander, and Mrs. Ernst A. Lehmann, wife of the craft's captain, arrived in good condition, it was learned here.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Giving House a New Deal
WE HOPE that you will make at least one New Year's resolution—and keep it, too. Resolve to go over your home and spend as much as you can conveniently spare to improve it. Sometimes a sum of from one hundred to five hundred dollars will do wonders for the home. Then, too, it is very often the small improvements, those that are not usually found in standard homes, that play a considerable part in obtaining a good price, when one wishes to sell the house.

Some prudent householders each year devote a certain sum to improving a certain part of the house, it may be the roof, the cellar, plumbing the bathrooms, electrical work, the windows or closets. Clever closets and storage spaces add so much to the comfort of the home, as well as making things simpler for everybody. And so we will offer some suggestions for those who wish to make the most of the closet space the home affords, as well as making additional storage space.

If you don't want to go to much expense, at least see to it that the existing closet space is well utilized. Fit the hall closet with an umbrella rack and a shelf for shoes and rubbers. Put proper poles in those closets which lack them. Make hat shelves and replace all old hangers, hooks and screws with new ones. Make low clothes poles for the children's cupboards.

New shelving
Have your china closets and linen closets adequate shelving? The man of the house will delight in a dressing case unit built into his closet. This will contain special receptacles for ties, socks, shirts. If the bedroom is a long one, then why not take advantage of the space and build a special wardrobe closet, divided into several compartments. When the doors are closed, the effect is that of a wood paneled end to the room.

Cedar Wood Excellent
Don't undertake this job unless you can spend a little on it and consult competent help. But if you do it, all your clothes storage troubles will be over and your clothes will be assembled in one unit, yet divided into special compartments so that you can go over your day clothes without disturbing sports things or evening outfits.

Of course, there should be shelves for hats and shoes and glove and scarf boxes. One of these compartments should be lined with cedar wood, if your home does not already contain a cedar closet. The cedar closet should be lined from floor to ceiling with cedar wood and walls and the back of the door, which should be weather stripped, must, of course, also be lined with cedar.

Colorado's Lethal Chamber and First Victim

Gov. JOHNSON
"I guess there's sumpin' to this religion thing. If I had absorbed some of it when Aunt Emma and Brother Herb wanted me to I wouldn't a been here." That is one of the last earthly reflections of Walter Reppin, 18-year-old New Jersey youth, the first person condemned to die in Colorado's new lethal chamber at Canon City. Reppin, who killed Vincent Regan, Colorado City taxi driver, during a holdup, protested his being used by the State for an "experiment," but Governor Edwin C. Johnson turned down his plea, asserting that prompt carrying out of sentences will do much to prevent mob violence in his State. Although Reppin will be the first human to die in the new lethal chamber, authorities have tried it out on animals and pronounced it the most humane method of execution. The gas used (hydrocyanic) is generated under the death chair and acts in a few seconds while witnesses watch from outside through plate glass windows.

STOCKHOLM—Instead of importing its Christmas apples from Oregon, as it has usually done, Sweden this year exported nearly 3,000,000 pounds, chiefly to Germany and Czechoslovakia, according to Baron Hermelin, head of the Swedish Society of Pomologists. More apples than ever have been turned into sauce for canning and cider. A single community, Ushult, in the province of Smaland, has shipped abroad 700,000 kilograms of apples, at an average price of 20 ore per kilogram.

NEWTON, Mass.—No more apples or flowers—in fact, no gifts of any kind—for the schoolteachers of this city, because a new ruling was passed, which read, "No teacher shall receive presents from pupils. This is the latest of many changes in Newton's school system in the past year."

“KNAVE’S GIRL” By JOAN CLAYTON COPYRIGHT 1932, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

Then, so capricious is the human mind, the girl decided deliberately to revisit her past, to call it to temporary life again. She determined to go downtown to see Leda Frayne. She had not seen Leda since she had left the beauty shop to play cards at the Hotel Beaucourt, that afternoon when she had gambled her last fifteen dollars against Julian Haverholt.

Once decided Patricia could not wait. She went to the beauty shop the afternoon after she returned to town from the disastrous house party. Her secret would be safe with Leda. She trusted Leda. She more than trusted her. She wanted and needed the other's hard, shrewd advice. Patricia planned to pose a hypothetical case which would include herself and Julian, Clark and Marthe, all presented casually as friends of friends. Somehow she believed that Leda could see through the tangle where she herself could not. Leda would know what was right where she no longer knew.

That was how she planned it. She dressed very carefully in soft British tweeds, threw a silver fox about her shoulders, selected her most becoming hat, her smartest gloves, and went down town on the subway. How odd the subway seemed after months of taxis and luxurious private cars!

But the neighborhood was just the same. With a strange little twist of the heart Patricia felt that this was coming home. The same gilt sign over Leda's shop, the same untidy, cluttered street, Leda curled up in a wicker chair reading a magazine. It was three in the afternoon. Business was slack, just as it had always been there at three o'clock. Patricia had counted on that. She entered to the tinkle of a bell tied to the door. Leda looked up, alert for trade, sprang to her feet.

"Bill McGee hasn't forgotten you, not by a long shot," replied Leda promptly.

"Patricia!" she cried in astounded delight and Patricia, as she returned the enthusiastic hug, believed for a moment that everything was the same. It wasn't, naturally. Leda had changed as she herself had changed. "How lovely you're looking," said the older girl but Patricia caught the quick glance she cast at the door.

"Are you expecting a customer, Leda?"

"Of course not, silly. Even if I were it wouldn't matter when I haven't seen you for months. Sit down and tell me all about it." After she had admired the scarf, the shoes, the simply stunning hat, Leda added casually, "Phil said he might come in about four. Would you like me to send to the drug store for tea? You and I have oceans of time."

"I see," said Patricia.

"Pat darling, I've hurt your feelings and I didn't mean it that way. Only I knew that you and Phil didn't get on and I thought I'd spare us all a fight. You see," said Leda, self-consciously, "Phil Kennedy and I are married now. Yep, happened two months ago."

Patricia's congratulations were swift and sincere. Phil Kennedy—she had forgotten him for the moment. She had been thinking of Phil Gove when Leda spoke and wondering how Leda had known him. Queer, how names and faces slipped from the mind. Phil Kennedy, Patricia had never liked him but Leda loved him. She rejoiced in her friend's happiness. Still deep within her was a wonder and a hurt. Six months before she would have been the confidante in all Leda's plans, and now, two months after the event, she heard that Leda was married. It seemed very strange.

"Now about you," said Leda, concerned, peremptory and interested.

"I want to hear every scrap, I know," she continued delicately, "or I think I know that you are with Julian Haverholt."

Patricia looked alarmed. "How did you know?" "I simply put two and two together. I've got quite a bean, my child. In the first place Wally Edge came here asking for you. He said you and he had lost every cent playing bridge against Julian Haverholt and then that you had disappeared. There was that!" said Leda triumphantly. "A week or so later I saw your stepmother on the street and she told me that she had received two hundred dollars through the mail. She thought it was from you and wanted your address if I had it. I told her I hadn't. Of course I didn't say a word about by private theory."

"How are Teresa and Ellen?" Patricia must ask. She felt lonely now for her little step-sisters. She said wistfully, "I suppose you see them often?"

"Not often," replied Leda indifferently. "The kids are all right though. Since you have been sending money your stepmother has hired a maid and is talking about sending them to private schools. Can you beat it?"

"I'd like to manage a visit."

"I wouldn't do that," said Leda to Patricia's secret disappointment. The older girl's face was grave. "I wouldn't think of it," she said definitely.

"Why not?"

"Bill McGee hasn't forgotten you, not by a long shot," replied Leda promptly.

Patricia started. It had been so long since she had thought of Bill McGee. Incredible that she, this slim little person in tweeds and fox, should ever have gone out with a cheap neighborhood gangster, should have incurred that gangster's enmity!

"Bill has dropped into your stepmother's shop several times hoping for news of you," Leda was saying. "She wouldn't give him news if she had it. You can count on that. But if he should learn where you are—look out! When Bill gets mad at a girl—or a man either for that matter—he apparently nurses his wounded feelings indefinitely."

"Bill McGee!" echoed Patricia with some of Julian Haverholt's own scorn. "Bill is a loud-mouthed coward and always will be."

"Don't be too sure of it," persisted Leda earnestly and uneasily. "Really I'd be awfully careful. You hear things about Bill or at least I do. He still has the speakeasy down on the corner. He's the principal owner of the Sky High club, or so they say. It's the new dump on Grove street. I haven't been in it. Night clubs are too rich for my pocketbook but it's a swell place and is coming money. Anyhow, Bill is driving a Packard now. I saw him on the street one day."

"I don't care what Bill is doing," said Patricia.

"You listen to me, kid. Bill McGee is a dangerous man and you gave him an awful blow to his vanity. He was crazy about you. Patricia, and I don't mean maybe. You can't ever tell what a racketeer, a gorilla, is going to do. Don't you forget that Bill McGee hasn't forgotten you."

The Stars Say:

For Saturday, Jan. 6

The lunar and mutual aspects of this day must be read as most propitious for those in employment or those desiring to increase their popularity and stability with those in power and authority. It is a time for approaching these for favors, preferment or just friendly intercourse, although it would be wise to be calm, reserved and diplomatic in such advances. The tendency to impulsive and bold behavior and impractical ideas would prove fatal to aspirations. Subtlety and tact would win out.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of recognition, preferment or advancement at the hands of employers, or friendly assistance or association with those in positions of power and authority. Approach superiors with tact and restraint, curbing impulsive and bold propositions. Rather subtlety, diplomacy and connivance may prove profitable, the mind being keen and clever.

A child born on this day should be mentally alert, decisive and subtle and the ambitions placed high. It should find favor with employers and those in high places.

Notable nativity: Loretta Young, screen actress
